

I want my subscription to the Blade to commence with the date of the exploration of E. H. Kimberly, New Windsor, Colo., subscription whether his he paid up or in arrears, discontinuing the paper to him at above address

When a set of villains can rob their poor ignorant dupes like this in this age of enlightenment (?) it is time to do all we can to destroy their power. There is only way to do it, and that is to circulate our literature among the unthinking masses. The more there is printed the cheaper it can be produced. The Blade fills the bill, and should certainly have a circulation of 100,000, or more, a week.

Special articles for propaganda could be put into tract form: cheaper—something like Tolstoy's articles.

I send 99 cents to pay up my subscription to the first of January 1904. I hope by that time I will be able to do better.—MRS. VINA HODGES.

Answer—In the mail in which this letter came I believe there were a many encouraging letters as I have ever got at one time—one of them having $9 in it, but this letter gets nearer to my heart than any in the whole mail, and I hereby direct Mr. Hughes to send you a Dog Fennel with my compliments and charge it to me.

KATHLEEN, Fla.—Enclosed find $1 for Dog Fennel. Am glad of the chance to get another one of your books. I have read the first one. I am sure it will be interesting and I am anxious to begin reading it.

People here are so religious that they do not take kindly to the Black Cat. I have a real time with money order for $1 for which send four blades to the following address and four cards to me. I want Dog Fennel and have not got the money to spare now. My religion is to do good.—J. E. MOORMAN.

Have you read Dog Fennel in the Orient?
